Chinese Geography Do Now

1. What natural barrier is located to the south of China as shown in the map to the right?

2. How do natural barriers help the development of China and other civilizations?
   A. They provide water for irrigation.
   B. They make travel easier and faster.
   C. They provide fertile land for agriculture.
   D. They make it difficult for enemies to invade.

3. Using the map to the left, describe one geographic similarity between China and another ancient civilization you’ve learned about.